

Learning Outcome 5: Students will analyze the distinctive viewpoints that are only available through the study of one or more languages and/or culture(s) outside of the United States and Canada.

Capability	Emerging	2. Developing	3. Proficient	4. Advanced
A. Students demonstrate knowledge of a society or culture outside of the U.S. and Canada as defined by its elements (e.g., history, values, politics, language, religion, economy, traditions, beliefs, and/or practices).	Describes selected elements of a society or culture with some inaccuracy or misunderstanding.	Describes selected elements of a society or culture briefly but accurately. Begins to explain their significance within that society or culture.	Describes selected elements of a society or culture with some detail. Adequately explains their significance within that society or culture.	Describes selected elements of a society or culture in depth. Skillfully explains their significance and interdependence within that society or culture.
B. Students will use distinctive viewpoints from outside of the U.S. and Canada to articulate insights or ask informed questions.	Uses distinctive viewpoints but offers no additional insight nor informed questions.	Uses distinctive viewpoints and articulates basic insights and/or begins to ask obvious questions.	Uses distinctive viewpoints and articulates educated insights and/or asks informed questions.	Uses distinctive viewpoints and articulates innovative insights and/or asks sophisticated questions.
C. Students will analyze a problem, issue, or representation using diverse perspectives of a culture(s) from outside of the U.S. and Canada.	Analyzes the problem, issue, or representation but misunderstands or inaccurately conveys the societal or cultural perspectives.	Analyzes the problem, issue, or representation using diverse perspectives but analysis is ineffective or contradictory.	Analyzes the problem, issue, or representation effectively using diverse perspectives.	Analyzes the problem, issue, or representation using diverse perspectives with sophistication and insight.

The 3 capabilities are adapted from previous versions of Wittenberg's Global Citizenship Learning Outcomes.